PREFACE.

THIS book, containing more than six thousand test-words for spelling and pronunciation, is designed to supply a want long felt by school-examiners, teachers, and advanced pupils in all grades of schools.

The book will be found convenient by teachers and superintendents in selecting words for tests in examination, as well as for imparting instruction in both orthography and orthoepy.

It will be found convenient by such others also as are desirous of spelling correctly, and of pronouncing our language according to the best usage of cultured English-speaking people.

The selection of a number of words for spelling or pronunciation, or both, as a daily exercise, will prove not only an excellent discipline, but will also serve to correct many popular errors, particularly in pronunciation, even among educated people.

The plan of the book may be readily learned by a brief examination of its contents.

The alphabetic arrangement will make it convenient as a work of reference.

The definitions given to the words are not meant to be comprehensive. They are inserted merely that the meaning of the word may not be mistaken. If a more critical definition is desired, the student should refer to the dictionary.

To the test-words is added a short discussion of geographical names and affixes, with the hope of awakening an interest in the use and signification of names. The list thus given, though brief, will prove of great value in creating an interest in classes studying history or geography.

In compiling the book the latest editions of Webster and Worcester have been taken as authority, but the latest and most reliable British orthoepists also have been consulted to confirm American authorities.

RULES FOR SPELLING.

THE following important rules for spelling are given, not because we learn to spell English by rule, but because they are in many cases an aid to the memory in retaining the proper spelling of the word.

Final E.

RULE 1.—Words ending in silent e generally drop the e on receiving an additional syllable beginning with a vowel; as, move, able, movable; ice, y, icy.

Exceptions.—1. Words ending in ce and ge retain the e when followed by a syllable beginning with a or o, in order to preserve the soft sound of c or g; as, changeable, peaceable.

2. The e is retained in verbs ending in oe or ee when taking an additional syllable beginning with a vowel; as, fleeing, hoeing.

3. Singe, swinge, and springe retain the e when followed by ing, to distinguish them from singing, swinging, and springing.

4. Dyeing retains the e, to distinguish it from dying.

RULE 2.—Words ending in silent e generally retain the e on receiving an additional syllable beginning with a consonant; as, shameful, lately.

Exceptions.—Duly, truly, wholly, awful, nursling, wisdom, judgment, abridgment, argument, acknowledgment.

Final Y.

RULE 3.—Words ending in y preceded by a consonant change the y into i before any other termination or additional syllable than 's and those beginning with i; as, witty, wittily.

Exceptions.—1. Y is changed to e in beauteous, duteous, bounteous, piteous, plenteous.

2. In the derivatives of dry (except drier, driest), shy, sky, sly, spry, wry, the y is not changed.

RULE 4.—When a vowel precedes the final y, or when a suffix is added beginning with i, the y is generally retained in words on receiving an additional termination; as, boy, boyish.

Exceptions.—Pay, paid; lay, laid, lain; day, daily; say, said, saith; slay, slain; stay, staid,—with their compounds, unpaid, mislaid, etc.

Final Consonant.

RULE 5.—Monosyllables and words accented on the last syllable, ending with a single consonant preceded by a single vowel, double the final consonant on taking an additional syllable beginning with a vowel; as, get, getting; begin, beginning.

Exceptions.—1. In the derivatives of gas s is not doubled.

2. The letters x, k, v are never doubled.

RULE 6.—When a word ends with two consonants, when the last consonant is preceded by a diphthong, or when the accent is not on the last syllable, the final consonant is not doubled on receiving an additional syllable beginning with a vowel; as, cheat, cheated; benefit, benefited.

Exceptions.—Tranquil, tranquillity; crystal, crystalline.

Remark.—Many writers double the final consonant when writing derivatives of the following: bevel, cancel, level, kidnap, marvel, travel, worship; as, bevelled, traveller, cancellation, etc.

Special Rules.

WORDS ENDING IN full.

RULE 7.—In derivative words ending in the syllable full one of the l's is dropped; as, pailful.

WORDS CONTAINING ei OR ie.

RULE 8.—In such words as receive, deceive, etc., c is usually followed by ei, and the other letters of the alphabet by ie; as, relieve, retrieve, etc.

Exception.—Siege and besiege are the most important exceptions.

WORDS ENDING IN ceous OR cious.

RULE 9.—Words relating to matter end in ceous, as arenaceous; all others end in cious. The word silicious is the only exception, but this is spelled also siliceous.
